BICYCLE CLUB'S PLUCK

New Addition Started to the Club House—It Will Be a Fine Structure.

Work on the new addition of the Scranton Bicycle club rooms was started yesterday by contractor Peter Stipp. The work is in the rear of the present structure and will cost nearly $11,000. When completed it will well illustrate the pluck of the members. While the plans mainly provide for a gymnasium, baths, a swimming pool, lockers, sleeping rooms and the like, they also include improvements in the present quarters.

The building is to be arranged so that it can be rented for banquets and large formal parties, weddings and the like without conflicting with its use by members. This will be possible because of plans which provide for the absolute separation of the front part of the building, where will be contained the banquet, dancing and reception rooms, from the other portion.

The plans are by Architects Brown & Morris. The members of the building committee are C. A. Godfrey, F. M. Vandling, D. B. Atherton, H. C. Lucas, Wallace Ruth, W. F. Boyle, E. C. Wallace, Charles Kreg, E. H. Davis, E. A. Gilmore, F. A. Hintermister and Hon. H. A. Knapp.

For two years the members had cherished the extension idea, but were daunted by the expense until Frank M. Vandling recently agreed to advance $5,000 on the first lien, and $5,000 more was issued by the city bonds based on a second mortgage. These were sold to the members, and notwithstanding the doubt, incredulity and opposition of influential members of the club, he succeeded in raising the $5,000 bond subscriptions within two weeks. All the bonds were taken up by members of the club, in various amounts from $10 to $100 each. Enough of revenue can be received from rents to pay the interest of the bonds first and reduce the principals of both entirely aside from the dues of the association or income derived from its members.

When finally the property will be one of the largest and best of its kind in the state.

STREET CAR ACCIDENT.

Testimony Will Be Taken Before Coroner Longstreet Thursday Night—The Other Woman Will Recover.

Coroner Longstreet empaneled a jury yesterday afternoon in the case of Mrs. Mary Kawalchick, who died at the Lackawanna hospital Sunday night from the injuries she received at 6 o'clock the same date in the street car accident at Dutch Gap. The jury comprises Judge Harris, Max Judick, William G. Moore, P. P. Henderson, A. B. Conger and Clarence Teeter.

The jury viewed the body and adjourned until Thursday night in the arbitration room of the court house to take testimony. Coroner Longstreet made an examination of the body and found a fracture of the skull. Her left leg was mangled between the ankle and the knee. From the time of the accident until she died her condition was so weak from nervous shock, as well as the injuries that Dr. Blanchard at the hospital was unable to do anything but apply bandages.

The body was removed from the hospital morgue to her late home at 427 South Washington avenue.

Miss Mary Slopka, of Buffalo, niece of the dead woman, and who was one of the occupants of the car, testified that the street car crashed into it. It is still at the home of George Shiras on North Main avenue, near where the collision occurred. Coroner Longstreet is attending her and has strong hopes of her recovery. She has improved greatly since he took charge of the case.

The two strikers concerned in the accident, Motorman Peter Altes and Conductor George Ferry, appeared before Alderman Wright yesterday morning as they had agreed to do and they gave bail to appear whenever they are called upon.

CARROLL DIED FROM HIS WOUNDS

He Was Found Unconscious on the Streets of Olyphant.

WAS THE VICTIM OF FOUL PLAY

His Home Was in Carbondale and On His Way to Camden, N. J., He Stopped Off at Olyphant to Meet Some Friends—Coroner Longstreet Held a Post Mortem—County Detective Leysion Hunting Assailants.

Thomas Carroll, of Carbondale, who was found unconscious on the sidewalk at the corner of Main and Lackawanna streets in Olyphant last Wednesday night, died at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. Coroner Longstreet held a post mortem examination in the afternoon and found a fracture about four inches long at the base of the brain, blood clots underneath the covering of the brain, and the skull and scalp had the appearance of being battered. The left eye was blackened and there was a bruise on the shin bone of the right leg.

The post mortem tends to establish beyond doubt that Carroll was the victim of foul play. There could hardly be any possibility that the injuries were received by falling from a hotel porch. The jury empaneled by Coroner Longstreet comprises Dr. Leonard Kelley, of Olyphant; A. B. Conger, M. W. Cummings, esq., Henry Deary, A. J. Winebrake, and James Linn. Adjournment was taken until next Tuesday evening at Mahon's hall, Olyphant.

What has not yet come to light is the identity of the person or persons who assaulted Carroll. At 1 o'clock last Wednesday morning five young men, Arthur Whitefield, Joseph Hyland, Thomas McHale, Joseph Best, and Thomas Fadden, were on their way home and they saw Carroll lying on the sidewalk at the place above mentioned.

WAS FOUND UNCONSCIOUS.

They thought he was in a drunken sleep, but on trying to arouse him they found blood issuing from one of his ears. They carried him into a near by drug store and sent for Dr. Leonard Kelley. The next morning the injured man was removed to Mahon's hotel. He was unconscious from the time he was found until twenty-four hours afterward, when his senses returned, but he made no statement.

Everything was blank to him and he could not give any information which might serve to throw any light on the case and identify his assailants.

He was 28 years old and a brother of P. A. Carroll, the well known Carbondale merchant. The day before his injuries he left home to go to Camden, N. J., to work in a store, but stopped off at Olyphant to meet some friends. He was around that evening and the next morning was found as described.

INQUEST TUESDAY NIGHT.

Mayor James J. O'Neill, of Carbondale, was present at the post mortem examination as attorney for the family of the deceased. The time for holding testimony was fixed for next Tuesday night at Mahon's hall, Olyphant, to which time the inquest was adjourned. Undertaker Sweeney, of Olyphant, prepared the body for burial and it was taken to Carbondale after the post mortem. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning.
